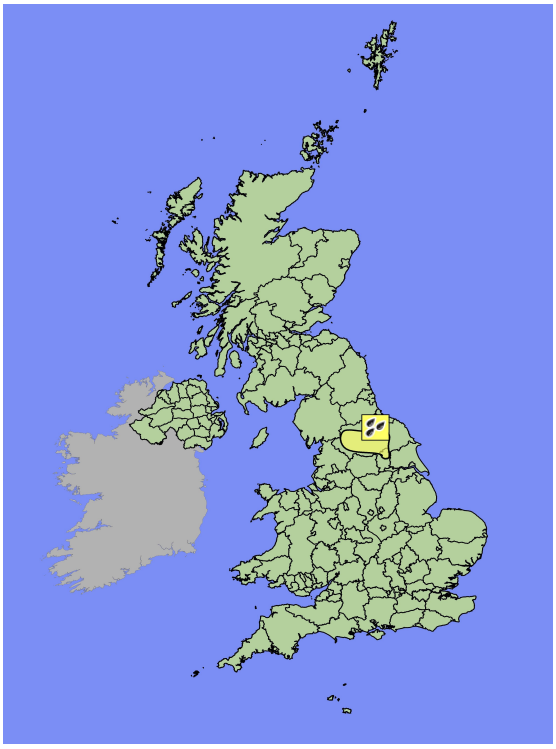
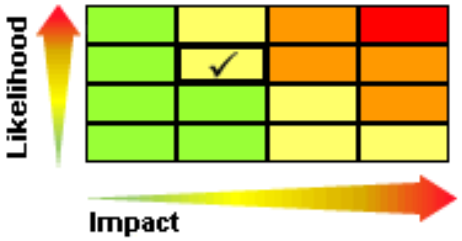
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Whilst rain will not be as persistent as of late, a further 10 mm or so of rain is expected in places as an occluded front comes through today from the north.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 09:00 on Fri, 11th May 2012 until 19:00 on Fri, 11th May 2012

River levels remain high after yesterday's rain, and with further rain to come today, the public should be aware of the risk of some local flooding of rivers and watercourses, as well as standing water on roads.
